Introduction

Community service is a type of voluntary work that people or groups do to improve their community or benefit society as a whole. Community service can take many forms, including assisting at a nearby shelter, participating in a community cleanup initiative, arranging a fundraiser for a cause, or guiding young individuals. The main objective of community service is to contribute to society and create a positive change in the lives of others. Furthermore, community service can help people acquire new abilities, establish new contacts, and attain personal fulfillment and gratification.

The reason that we chose to do our community service at Xiamen University is because we think that since the goal of community service is to serve the public, why don't we start with the place that is closest to us. By creating a better university environment, both students and staff can work or study in a more comfortable environment. Not only that, through these kinds of activities, students can also be inspired to protect the campus environment and cherish school resources and encourage them to work together to create a better campus environment. In addition, since this activity is to provide services for the school, we need to have close cooperation with the school staff, and it is a great opportunity for us to learn how to communicate with others.

Objective

- Beautify the D-block by painting a more beautiful signage, ensure better living place for students.
- Ensure that new students are provided with adequate guidance and support to navigate the campus and avoid getting lost.
- Cultivate school loving spirit, exemplifying a sense of appreciation for the university by practical actions.
- Raise awareness among students and motivate them on protecting our school environment.

Details of project

- Date: Starting from 24 April 2023 to 19 June 2023.
- Schedule:

24 April: Post proposal on FB page and plan the work procedure

1 May: Ensure the equipment needed

8 May: On the spot investigation and group division

22 May: Collect feedback via Google Form from students

5 June: Done video and report

12 June: Deadline of final video and report

19 June: Complete the final individual report and feedback

- Through this activity, we will add more conspicuous and exquisite signage to each D-block hostel building. This will make the D-block hostel area look more organized and this will help new students or visitors to the school who are not familiar with the direction of the road. Besides that, we will also post our details regarding our activity on FB page, just to remind students that the things that can bring convenience to them are created by other students after hard discussions, planning and implementing, hopefully that students can realize the importance of protecting the campus environment.

Budget

- No expenses needed, everything will be provided by the OM

Conclusion

In conclusion, organizing this community service activity aimed at providing convenience in the campus area is a valuable initiative that can benefit students, staff and visitors in many ways. By providing clear and concise directions, information, and branding elements, signage can facilitate easy navigation, promote a sense of community and belonging, and enhance the university's visual appeal. A well-designed and properly executed signage plan can also have positive implications for safety, accessibility, and sustainability. Thus, investing in the creation and maintenance of a comprehensive signage system can yield significant benefits for the university community and help to achieve its mission and goals.
